

Invitation to a series of lectures

The School of Political Sciences, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki invites you to a series of lectures by Professor Joel Foyth, National University of Rosario, Argentina. The programme of his lectures is as follows:

- Tuesday 2 December 2025, 15:00-16:00: “Strategic Energy Dynamics: The Eastern Mediterranean, Europe-MENA Relations and the Latin American Pivot”, lecture within the framework of the course KE0X48: Energy Resources and Politics: 19th–21st Century, instructor: Vasiliki Lazou, Room: 212, second floor, Law, Economics and Political Sciences (LEPS) building, University campus
- Wednesday 3 December 2025, 15:15-16:30: “Javier Milei’s Ascent: Is Latin America Getting Closer to Right-Wing or Is the “natural” Cycle Repeating?”, lecture within the framework of the course KE0X31 Contemporary Issues of International Politics, instructors: Ioannis Papageorgiou & Marina Eleftheriadou, Room: 107, first floor, Law, Economics and Political Sciences (LEPS) building, University campus
- Wednesday 3 December 2025, 18:00-21:00: “Europe – Latin America – Middle East and North Africa (MENA): Challenges and Opportunities in a Fragmented International Economy”, lecture within the framework of the course International Political Economy (Master of Political Analysis), instructor Dimitris Giakoulas, Room: Paschos, 2nd floor, School of Political Sciences, Vasileos Irakliou 12 st.
- Thursday 4 December 2025, 09:15-12:00: “Religion and International Relations – a phenomenon that remains understudied: theoretical framework and the cases of Turkiye and Latin America”, lecture within the framework of the course KE0E19 Politics and Religions, instructor: Kostas Papastathis, Room: B, ground floor, Law, Economics and Political Sciences (LEPS) building, University campus

The lectures will be held in English and are open to students and the public

For further information you can contact the instructors of each course.

Joel Foyth is International Relations Analyst, the Faculty of Political Science and International Relations (FCPOLIT), National University of Rosario (UNR), Argentina. He is International Business Developer at Staffers, Colombia and Argentina. University Lecturer of Economic Policy and Associate Lecturer of the Seminar Politics, Religion, and Economy in the International Relations of the Middle East and North Africa, at the FCPOLIT, UNR. Researcher at the Rosario Institute for Studies of the Arab and Islamic World (IREMAI - UNR) and the Middle East Studies Group (GEMO) of the South-South Relations and Cooperation Program (PRECSUR).